About the Project:

The University of Florida Performing Arts (UFPA) Driveway Theatre Project (DTP) was created in response to conditions created by a pandemic and the desire to make theatre available to everyone.

DTP is looking to build a small troupe of local, non-equity, adult actors to perform vignettes and one-acts of traditional and/or contemporary work. The performances will take place in a variety of locations in the surrounding community. There will be a flat rate compensation for actors based on rehearsals and performances.

Audition:

One to two minute monologue required—
Please bring resume and head-shot

If all the world's a stage, then our stages should look like the world. At UF Performing Arts we are fostering culture and presenting performances that reflect and celebrate the diversity of our audiences and our artists. Our organization is committed to including voices of those of varying abilities, ages, ethnicities, gender identities, races, religions, sexual orientations, and socioeconomic backgrounds.

The auditions, rehearsals, and performances will adhere strictly to COVID-19 safety guidelines, to include social distancing and wearing masks.
